Announcements:
* The Oak Institute is showing two more films this semester as part of its series on "State Repression and Citizen Resistance." On Thursday (tomorrow! at 7 pm in LJ 100), we will screen Eliza Capai's "Resistance," which highlights the citizen reaction to the impeachment of Brazil's first female president. Capai will be here for the screening. And on Wednesday evening November 29th (7 pm in Ostrove), we will screen Oak Fellow Jinyan Zeng's "Born a Chinese Woman," her latest documentary about discrimination and violence against women in that country.

* Oak is moving ahead with its planned reading group on "War and Human Rights" for the spring term. This is an ungraded, one credit class (GS 198) that will bring together faculty, staff and students to learn more about Oak's 2018 theme. We still have a couple openings (and modest compensation) for faculty members willing to facilitate a discussion on an article, chapter or short book they choose. The reading group is likely to meet 12 - 12:50 every Wednesday, and lunch will be provided. Oak is eager to include interested faculty in the discussions.
