THE CAMPUS
Considered one of the most beautiful college campuses in the nation, Colby sits at the top of Mayflower Hill and overlooks the Kennebec River valley and city of Waterville. The 714-acre campus comprises more than 60 buildings, 50 acres of fields, several miles of running trails, Johnson Pond, and a 128-acre arboretum. Most of the campus is a Maine Wildlife Management Area.

STUDENT RESIDENCES AND DINING
Ninety-five percent of students choose to live on campus all four years, enjoying easy access to their classes, the library, dining halls, and, of course, friends. Colby has 34 residence halls, and room choices include singles, doubles, triples, and quads, as well as senior apartments. Colby has three distinct dining halls—Dana, Foss, and Roberts. Dana offers grill and pizza favorites, an international station, a salad bar, and fresh pasta and bread. Chefs at Foss prepare a range of innovative dishes from around the world, as well as vegetarian and vegan options. Roberts, known by students as Bobs, serves regional cuisine as plated, restaurant-style meals.

HAROLD ALFORD ATHLETIC CENTER
The athletic center includes Wadsworth Gymnasium, five squash courts, a field house with four tennis courts and an eight-mile track, a climbing wall, the Alfond Ice Rink, a swimming pool, an aerobics studio, the Boulous Family Fitness Center, and a physical therapy center. Colby has 52 varsity teams—16 for women, 15 for men, and coed golf—plus nearly a dozen club sports and an active intramural program. All regular-season athletic contests are open to students and to the public at no charge.

COLBY COLLEGE MUSEUM OF ART
Colby’s museum is one of the premier college art museums in the country, it features works by Andy Warhol, Sol Lewitt, Mary Cassatt, James McNeill Whistler, Winslow Homer, Georgia O’Keeffe, Terry Winters, Alex Katz, and many others. Professors in many disciplines use the museum as part of their courses. The recently completed 26,000-square-foot Alfond-Lunder Family Pavilion includes additional exhibition space as well as new studios for photography and fine arts foundation classes. The museum is open Tuesdays through Sundays, and admission is free.

PERFORMANCE SPACES
Colby has several multipurpose performance facilities. The 274-seat Strider Theater, located in the Runnals Building, includes an open stage with an orchestra pit, a well-equipped scene shop, and a costume workshop. Cotter Union also includes the Pugh Center, which houses multicultural organizations and activities; Page Commons, for large study. CARBON-NEUTRAL CAMPUS
In 2013 Colby became the fourth college in the country to achieve carbon neutrality. The College has been committed to environmental sustainability for decades. Colby uses 100 percent renewable electricity, has 11 LEED-certified buildings (other certifications pending), has geothermal heating and cooling in two buildings, and has a biomass plant that burns sustainably harvested wood to heat most campus buildings.

NEARBY FACILITIES
Colby-Hume Center
Colby owns 30 acres including 450 feet of lakeshore on Messalonskee Lake seven miles from campus. Students have access to facilities including a picnic area with charcoal grills, a large dock for swimming, and a boathouse used by varsity crew teams to store rowing shells.

QUARRY ROAD RECREATION AREA
Quarry Road Recreation Area, located within walking distance of campus, offers six miles of groomed cross-country ski trails with snowmaking capability. Colby’s Nordic ski team competes and practices on the trails during the winter, and students can take advantage of the recreation area year round for skiing, snowshoeing, hiking, running, hiking, rock climbing, and ice climbing.
