

Who?

Christy Adler ('14) is a Global Studies major with concentrations in International Economic Policy and Europe.

Where?

Copenhagen, Denmark through the Danish Institute for Study Abroad (DIS). Spring Semester.

What?

Christy's program focused on international business. She took five classes, three concerning international business, one class in Danish, and an elective course. (Christy chose photojournalism.) Three weeks were built in to the program for travel.

Why?

Christy was a Feb Frosh in Dijon, France, so she had experienced international travel before. She also knew she wanted a more independent environment, so she wasn't looking for a homestay program. Christy is thinking about working in Europe after graduation, and the experiences she had were invaluable.

Advice?

Christy's biggest piece of advice? "Have a clear set of objectives. Don't just sit around and worry about your grades; really have an experience."

Know what you want to learn, and be ready to see a different perspective.

Christy also said that the more effort and thought you put into your initial application during your sophomore fall, the easier it is to figure out what you want out of the process.

Thanks Christy!
